Slashdot's story about the amateur adventurer who is now stranded at McMurdo Base (because he underestimated his fuel requirements for a trip over the South Pole) reminded me of a controversy abrew at the other end of the planet: The hole at the North Pole. To resolve this matter, Steve Currey is mounting an expedition to the hole at the top of the earth. Reserve your seat now! For only $20,000, you too can travel to the hole in the North Pole and glory at the tropical landscape that awaits you. Maybe.
