

This Game Boy won't hurt a bit, just help the Powerpuff Girls count backwards from ten devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20041215-00

December 15, 2004

Raymond Chen

Is there nothing a Game Boy can't do? We already learned that it can be played like a musical instrument. Now we discover that letting children play with a Game Boy before surgery is more effective than tranquilizers or a parent's hand at keeping them calm.

You know when you go to the dentist and she asks you, "What flavor fluoride rinse would you like?" Perhaps someday the anaesthetist will ask you, "Do you want a Game Boy or a Nintendo?"

(Drat, scooped by Slashdot again.)

Raymond Chen

Follow

