

A different way to win from one of those claw game devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20110628-01

June 28, 2011

Raymond Chen

I know two people (siblings) who are experts at those claw games. They can look at a claw game, assess the situation, decide whether there is a winnable toy, and if so, drop in their quarter and grab it. I asked the elder sibling how they arrived at this amazing skill. “As a teenager, I spent something like $20 pumping quarters into one of these machines, and I eventually figured it out.”

Or there is the direct approach.

Raymond Chen

Follow

