It's that time again: Linking to other Microsoft bloggers, and once again, the links are all from the excellent NT Debugging blog.

- Challenges of debugging optimized x64 code: A debugging walkthrough, including diagrams of the x64 calling convention.
- Windows Hotfix and Updates – How do they work? discusses the multiple servicing tracks. (Previously covered here.)
- Don't believe everything you read, on the dangers of using undocumented registry keys.
